PORK AS A MONEY CROP

The director of the Arkansas Agricuitural Experiment Station has been making experiments in the above line. His estimate is that pork can be raised at 14c. per pound, and often times less.
The hog is estimated at 250 to 275 pounds and to be killed 10 months old. His experiments as to the food necessary were made on worn out cotton land. One-fourth acre in each of following yielded in pork as follows: Spanish peanuts made 313 pounds pork, chufas 148 pou de and corn 109 ounds pork. The yield-and this roduct was gathered by the hog himf-was Spanish peanuts 90 bushels the acre, and chufas 184 bushels to acre Besides the two above crops, sorghum-both stalk and grain were fed-and cow peas were sown. Toward the end, 5 bushels of corn were fe I to the hogs. But the abeve constiru ed the succession of crops. Many prominent prohibitioni-t- oppose any alliance with the high license members of the General Assembly because they say it will be compromising "their principle." If they can't have prohibition over the whole State, then they wont have it in any part of the State. This argument it seem to us is obviously fallacious. A religious denomination might with equal soundness of reasoning say that it would not have one or two or any spent last Wednesday with friends at given number of churches in every county in the State then it would have them in none. It might go still further pursuing the same reasoning, and say that if it could not have a church in every State then it would have no church in the United States. Under the bill the prohibitionists would certainly win in many counties of the State, and in all they have the same chances as the high license people and
